

Samir Brikho was appointed Chief Executive of AMEC plc in October 2006. He was previously a member of the Group Executive Committee of ABB Ltd., Switzerland and Chairman of ABB Lummus Global.

Didier Pflieger is Chief Operating Officer for the Power and Process division, having been appointed in December 2007. He was previously Head of Business Unit Systems of ABB Robotics and has extensive experience in the energy, power and process industries.

Tim Gelbar is President of Power and Process Americas, having joined AMEC in January 2006. He has extensive experience in the power and process markets, having run business groups in various EPC* companies. Tim worked most of his career with the Jones Group and held various positions including Vice President of Northeast Process Unit.

Steve Lee is President of Power and Process, UK and Europe. He joined AMEC in 1999 having previously worked for Costain. Steve has 30 years experience in the oil, gas and process industries.

Mike Saunders is President of Power and Process, Nuclear, having been appointed in 2007. He was previously Senior Vice President of Strategy and Integration at Westinghouse following the acquisition by Toshiba. Immediately before this he was Senior Vice President for the Global Nuclear Fuel Business and has extensive experience of the nuclear industry having managed nuclear licensed sites in the UK, Europe and the USA.

Rowan Sharples is Director of UK Construction for National Grid, having joined them in 2003. His responsibilities include the safe, reliable and efficient delivery of £1.7 billion per year capital programmes in National Grid UK Gas Distribution and UK Transmission Gas and Electricity.

* Engineer, Procure and Construct